Bishop Deehan has asked that prayers would be offered for the following intentions during the weekend ---
For the children preparing for the Sacraments and for the families, that they may grow in love for Jesus in the Eucharist

For a return to the Eucharist in our parish communities.

For vocations to the priesthood and religious life in our Diocese.

“Only in adoration, only in the presence of the Lord do we truly rediscover our taste and passion for evangelization. Oddly enough, we have lost the prayer of adoration and everyone, priests, bishops, consecrated men and women, need to recover it, and be quiet in the Lord’s presence.” Pope Francis, World Youth Day 2023 Lisbon

PRAYERS FOR SOULS IN PURGATORY

1. Be still, for the presence of the Lord, the Holy One is here,
Come, bow before Him now, with reverence and fear.
In Him no sin is found we stand on holy ground.
Be still, for the presence of the Lord, the Holy One is here.
2. Be still, for the glory of the Lord is shining all around;
He burns with holy fire, with splendour He is crowned.
How awesome is the sight, our radiant King of light!
Be still, for the glory of the Lord is shining all around.

THIRTY-SECOND SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

The wisdom of God is given to us if we are open to seek it. Having received it, it teaches us to be always open, alert for the approach and the presence of God. With this wisdom God’s coming will not catch us unprepared to receive Him.

Hosanna 1

1. Abide with me, fast falls the eventide;
the darkness deepens, Lord, with me abide!
When other helpers fail, and comforts flee, help of the helpless, O abide with me.
2. Swift to its close ebbs out life’s little day;
earth’s joys grow dim, its glories pass away;
change and decay in all around I see;
O thou who changest not, abide with me

Light or Dark?

Every day we either add to the light of the world or we add to its darkness. I know that because I’ve seen it in my own life. Maybe you’ve seen it in your life too.
When I break relationships; turn away from the needs, concerns, or hopes of another; or act as if I have no need of him or her; my world becomes darker. And when I remain open and receptive, soften my heart, and recommit to love my neighbour as myself, a new light begins to shine.

When I carry grudges and resentments, nurse old offenses, or refuse another forgiveness, I add to the darkness. But when I offer mercy, forgiveness, and seek reconciliation, I let my light shine in the world.

When, in my marriage or other relationships, I put myself at the center, act as if I am sovereign, give priority to my needs and desires, I am living in a dark place. But when my concern is for the other, I make him or her a priority in my life, and I act as if he or she truly matters, I add to the light of the world.

When I think, speak, or act with violence; deny another’s dignity; act with indifference to another’s well-being, I darken this world. But when I turn the other cheek, work for justice, recognise the dignity of every human being, I add to the light of the world.

When I get stuck in my way as the right way or the only way, assume I know more and better than others, close myself to new truths, ideas, or possibilities, I stand in a darkness of my own making. But when I recognise my need of others; let go of comparisons, competition, and judgments; risk not being in control or having all the answers I begin to see the world in a new light, and new possibilities arise.

What do you see when you look at your life and world today? Every time I live in that dark place, every time I add darkness to the world, I betray the gospel of Jesus, myself, and the values I claim to hold.
